Another Cut, Another Slash, Another Sacrifice, at F. WEILL'S Great Closing Out Sale.

Only 30 more days, before this sale will be over, to clear the stock formerly owned by Mr. Sam Sulzbacher at 188 Front Street.

Our Stock Must Be Sold; Prices Will Be No Object.

Every article must be sold at prices barely covering the cost of material—leaving the cost of making clear out of the question. If you are money savers, now is the chance to add to the saving already put away.

This week, families of two or three males can be fitted out for the same outlay that is usually required to clothe one member. Do not invest one dollar for Clothing or Furnishing Goods outside of our store while this sale lasts.

We have enough Bargains to fill this entire paper, but on account of limited space we cannot mention prices; which would only give you a faint idea of the big inducements that await you here.

F. WEILL.

Mr. Sulzbacher is still making the noblest suits, trousers and overcoats in this city at prices that defy competition. A fit guaranteed every time.

John R. McLean's Great Newspaper.

Without a single exception, there is beyond doubt no greater or more popular newspaper in the United States than the Cincinnati Enquirer; or a more successful publisher than its proprietor, Mr. John R. McLean.

The old-time prices for the Daily Enquirer have been maintained, and its circulation largely increased each year; hard times and cheaper journals failing to arrest its onward march and high appreciation of the public for its true worth and merit.

The Weekly Enquirer at beginning of the campaign year was offered at 50 cents a year, and its circulation increased by the addition of over 200,000 new subscribers; the most substantial and coveted testimonial a publisher could desire.

When asked for the secret of such success, Mr. McLean frankly answers: The Enquirer has no opinions to force upon its patrons, it simply prints the facts and tells the truth that the reader may form his own opinions. By maintaining the price of the paper, more news and greater variety can be furnished, and every class of business interests catered to, which a cheaper journal cannot afford.

The very liberal support given the Enquirer by the public at large, makes it incumbent upon the management to serve it faithfully with zeal and enterprise in minor matters as well as those of greater magnitude.
